Professor Green

Episode 2 - Part 3

Superhero Floating HQ, Somewhere in the Pacific

No Time to Waste! Apollon, Diamond Wire, get around our base. Disperse the oil spill.

OK!

My laser sources are ideal for rear-side cell ablation and thermal cell separation, but I can put these puppies to cleanup work.

Now, Silver Maze, Wire mesh, contain the mess!

Hold on, Glittery Lady.

It was a substantial victory. The Oil Monster had been vanquished beneath the waves. Sealed by laminator’s precision application of EVA and then heated to annihilation.

Now, Silver Maze, wire mesh, contain the mess!

If you can reduce the water’s surface tension, the oil should form into droplets.

But now our solar superheroes must band together to clean up the sticky residue.

Your precision silver paste will attract the oil droplets, while my thin steel wires will form a mesh around the perimeter.
Let's illuminate...

It's great to observe! The suite of fn-enabling technologies coming together to green the planet: ingenious team!

...and electrify!

What's behind this?

What, it's coal? I thought we did away with him.
With unwavering strength and flexibility, Silver Maze had an electrifying touch and had long turned her powerful yet delicate touch to making products that would green the earth. And the results were always a sight to behold.

Was that coal? But how?

Coal has risen from the dead. Flashes souvenirs from their last battle must have combined with what was left of oil. A fossil monster has been created.
